President Report

Derrick Perkins

Friends,

That hurricane Dorian was a poignant reminder that we need to be aware and prepared for storms in our area! Things are getting more active in the tropics so make sure you have your basic and certainly your medical supplies ready to go in your Disaster Preparedness Bag. As we've seen recently in North Carolina, you don't even need a direct hit to be seriously affected by a powerful storm. PVA and Texas PVA both have disaster assistance programs to help our members just as we did in the wake of Hurricane Harvey. However, we all need to be proactive to protect ourselves and our families. Looking forward: October is typically our busiest month and this year is no exception so take a good look at our calendar of events. There's a lot of information in the following pages and there's something for everyone. The highlight is our annual Jack Sanders Banquet which will take place in the beautiful Houston Downtown Aquarium. Space is limited so make sure that you contact the office ASAP to RSVP.

Sincerely,
Derrick Perkins
President

Congratulations!!

2019-2020 Educational Scholarship Award Winners

Paralyzed Veterans of America's (PVA) primary goal has been to assist its members and their families in improving the quality of their lives. This goal has been addressed through a wide variety of activities, including support of programs designed to provide education and training.

PVA established an Educational Scholarship Program to assist PVA members and their immediate families in gaining a post-secondary education. This year we want to congratulate one of our own from Texas Chapter!

“TPVA members- our civil rights are under assault!

U.S. House Resolution 4099 which is yet another attempt to dilute the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990. It absolves business owners of serious responsibility to remove barriers to access to their businesses. Included is an example form letter with highlighted sections explaining what needs to be filled out on the blank lines/space in the actual form letter. I would encourage you to complete the form letter and either scan/email or snail mail to your Congressional representative. You can figure out who your congressional member is by visiting Congress.gov Once completed, print out a signed copy of the letter, include it with your monthly volunteer hours worksheet and you'll get five volunteer points. You can only get credit for one letter. If you have any questions please contact the legislative director at 210-556-4907.”

Helping You Help a Veteran

Do you know a Veteran who seems to be struggling? Maybe she has difficulty sleeping? Or he doesn't like being in public places or crowds? The effects of deployment can show up in many ways. And these problems can show up weeks, months, or even years after a service member returns from combat.

You may be in a special position to help a Veteran to reach out for help. Coaching Into Care is a national VA call center for family and friends of Veterans who want to help. CIC works to educate, support and empower family members and friends so that you can encourage the Veteran in your life to seek care.

Coaching Into Care has a team of dedicated professionals who specialize in helping callers get the right information about how to help Veterans and how to navigate the VA system. Our call center staff includes social workers and psychologists who all work together so that you can lend a helping hand.

People often call CIC because they know a Veteran they are worried about. If this sounds like you, we are ready to talk to you about your goals for getting support for a Veteran, or for yourself. Our free coaching service can help you figure out how to motivate the Veteran in your life to seek services. We can talk with you about ways to begin difficult conversations and come up with a plan that feels right to you. There is no one "perfect" thing to say to get someone into care, but with patience and support, we will help you navigate through this difficult time.

All services are free and confidential! We look forward to hearing from you soon.

The Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) is amending its medical regulations by standardizing the delivery of care by VA health care providers through telehealth. This rule ensures that VA health care providers can offer the same level of care to all beneficiaries, irrespective of the State or location in a State of the VA health care provider or the beneficiary.

The new federal rule will allow VA doctors, nurses and other health-care providers to administer care to Veterans using telehealth, or virtual technology, regardless of where in the United States the provider or Veteran is located, including when care will occur across state lines or outside a VA facility. Previously, it was unclear whether VA providers could furnish care to Veterans in other states through telehealth because of licensing restrictions or state-specific telehealth laws. This new rule exercises federal preemption to override those state restrictions, paving the way for VA to expand care to Veterans using telehealth enabling Veterans nationwide to receive care at home, the rule will especially benefit Veterans living in rural areas who would otherwise need to travel a considerable distance or across state lines to receive care. The rule also will expand Veterans' access to critical care that can be provided virtually — such as mental health care and suicide prevention — by allowing quicker and easier access to VA mental health providers through telehealth. Most of us are used to and will only accept our medical care via a face to face meeting with our physician whether it requires a drive or a ride with a friend or a love one to do so. For others who may be looking for a faster to receive care for routine medical issues in the convenience of your home using your phone or tablet is even more of an option now that VA has adopted the practice because of new law.

Telemedicine is a modern-day version of the doctor's house call where you see your physician via your video or smartphone conferencing. And as previously mentioned, while on-demand telemedicine isn't an end all be all approach to complete medical care, and probably not a good idea when you have complicated needs, it often works well when you have a straightforward complaint, such as a cold, allergies, rashes, sprains, strains or joint pains. With passage of the new rule and forthcoming VA implementation, it is safe to assume that many veterans will opt to use this form of care, therefore, it is important to become familiar with some of the benefits and drawbacks of telemedicine. Some of the upsides of telemedicine include convenience or ability to have access care anywhere, anytime and in many cases your doctor can quickly assess you from the comfort of your home and answer questions about medications. And, if you need additional care, your physician can then schedule you for an in-office visit or to an urgent care center or specialist. In addition to saving time traveling to an appointment, you don't have to spend additional time sitting in a waiting room.

For those concerned about privacy issues, VA policy stipulates that telemedicine systems must abide by all HIPAA guidelines and offer you the same level of privacy you receive when you see a doctor in the clinic.

One of the drawbacks of telemedicine include the mode of care is not suitable for all cases. Yes, a veteran can get a fast evaluation using telemedicine, but you can't get a full, routine physical exam. And in those cases where physical type tests or labs are required, a remote consultation will not be sufficient. Your primary care physician will need to arrange for you to physically visit a facility in those case or when you require care for more serious and involved medical issues.

As with any electronic communication, there is always the possibility to experience electronic glitches. When using telemedicine, you are dependent on technology, and thus you're at the mercy of anything that can interrupt your connection such as bad weather, loss of power or even outdated software.

This final rule achieves important Federal interests by increasing the availability of mental health, specialty, and general clinical care for all beneficiaries. This final rule is effective June 11, 2018. If you are interested in learning more about the program, you can read more about the VA telehealth program by visiting <http://news.careinnovations.com/blog/va-issues-rule-on-authority-of-health-care-providers-to-practice-telehealth> or speak with your primary health care provider.
